

INTERPRETING WORLD HERITAGE

Storytelling, Connection to the Public

Qutub Minar, India

unesco whipic

Centre
under the auspices of UNESCO

International Centre for the Interpretation and Presentation of World Heritage Sites under the auspices of UNESCO
국제유산의 해석과 표현을 위한 국제기구

Contents

Qutub Minar, India

Qutub Minar, located in Delhi, India, is a UNESCO World Heritage Site renowned not only for its architectural splendour but also for its historical significance. The Qutub Minar complex includes the Qutub Tower, which stands as India's tallest stone tower and houses the oldest mosque in the country. Metaphorically, the Qutub Minar can be likened to a telescope showing India's diverse cultural heritage. This imaginative perspective encourages a deeper exploration and appreciation of this World Heritage Site.

04

Director General's Note

Looking Back on 3 Years of Significant Growth

06

Editor's Note

08

HI World

Africa [Namibia]	08
Story Telling: Connecting the Namib Sand Sea, a Natural Heritage Property to Humanity
Arab States [Jordan]	12
The Story of Storytelling in Putting Jordan's Cuisine on a Dining Table
North America [United States of America]	16
The Power of Storytelling: Inclusive and Empathetic Interpretation at Thomas Jefferson's Monticello
Europe [Italy]	20
Prehistoric Village People A Small Museum, a Big Experience: The Case of Ledro
Asia and the Pacific [India]	28
Storytellers of India®: Echoes from the Past to the Present
Latin America and the Caribbean [Brazil]	32
Bringing People Closer to Valongo Wharf Archaeological Site

38

HI People

Storytelling in Heritage Festival	38
42
HI Plus
Technology Meets Heritage	42
46
My World Heritage
Embracing the Narratives: Uncovering the Multifaceted History and Cultural Significance of the Great Zimbabwe World Heritage Site	46